Dear Sir,

With pleasure I have learned of your interest in participating in a meeting of Nobel Prize winners, followed by a visit to Pope John Paul II.

You will be aware that each Nobel Prize winner is considered as a scientist who has contributed greatly to science and human progress. At the same time members of the community of Nobel Prize winners have the moral authority of which humanity has an ever-growing need.

With this meeting we would like to engage this moral authority to inform the Pope concerning the major problems facing man today. In the area of your specific scientific competence and to discuss with him the most suitable methods and means to contribute towards giving contemporary man new hope to enable him to realize himself more fully.

Thanking you in anticipation of your esteemed collaboration,

Yours very sincerely
